

“Eighty years of community water fluoridation at optimal levels has proven to be safe and effective at reducing tooth decay to improve oral health, especially for those who lack health care access. The removal or banning of fluoride will cause serious oral health consequences that must be stopped or America will become sicker and not healthier. There is no better replacement for the time-tested, doctor trusted use of fluoride in community water programs.”

– Dr. Brett Kessler, President of the American Dental Association